

Y. W. C. A. OPENS ANOTHER
REST ROOM FOR GIRLSIts Experiment at Fourteenth and Main Streets Highly Successful.PLACE TO GO AT LUNCH TIME
Formerly Many Girls Frequented the Waiting-Room of Railway Stations for Lack of Some Other Place to Go During Noon Hour.

The Young Women's Christian Association has embarked on still another venture—a third lunchroom—and no one will be surprised to hear that it has made a big success with this, as with the others. The cafeteria at the main building and the lunch and rest room at Fourteenth and Main Streets seem to be the most popular. The association determined to extend its advantages to more distant parts of the city. It was especially desirous of opening a room on lower Main Street because the tremendous need for it there. There are dozens of girls working in adjacent factories and offices who have no proper place to eat their lunches, no place to spend the noon recess except on the streets. After the marked success of the lunchroom on Main and Fourteenth streets, the extension committee of the Young Women's Christian Association decided to establish a third lunchroom further down.

MANAGERS OF NEARLY ALL
BUSINESS HOUSES APPROVE

Before the "Come-Over Lunchroom" was opened, the managers of the adjacent industrial establishments were visited and the plan laid before them. All of them heartily approved of it. The girls of the neighborhood were also asked their opinion of such a lunchroom, and nearly all questioned expressed the greatest interest in and approval of the scheme. Since the opening of the room, on May 5, the girls have proved their very real interest by their steady patronage, the average attendance for lunch being forty-five, and some days, while others visit the room once or twice a week. The expressions of approval have been many, and the friendliest interest is shown on all sides.

The place is a one-story brick store, and has been made very clean and attractive with its freshly-painted buff walls, green woodwork, and striped buff and green curtains. At the back are the kitchen and cafeteria counter, and near the counter is a long table, with menu, signs, and a "Vegetable soup, 5 cents; creamed potatoes, 5 cents; fresh snaps, 5 cents; fruit salad, 5 cents; chocolate pudding, 5 cents; peaches or cream, 5 cents; tea, coffee, milk, butter, and jam, 5 cents; hot rolls, 1 cent." With every 5 cent order goes one slice of bread. The menu varies from day to day, but the above is a fair sample.

BRANCH OF YOUNG
WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The "Come-Over Lunch" is conducted as a branch of the extension department of the Young Women's Christian Association, and is under the direct supervision of the extension secretary, Miss Lucy Mason. It is the result of the interest of a friend of the association, a friend of the girls, at her suggestion, and made possible by her assistance. Mrs. J. T. Crockett is chairman of the extension committee, and its other members are Mrs. E. E. Wetzel, Miss Mary E. Berkeley and Miss Julia Cone. Miss Elizabeth Brown, of the Young Women's Christian Association staff, has charge of the lunchroom at present, and operates it with the assistance of a colored cook.

Volunteers who have rendered invaluable assistance in getting the room ready and in the actual serving of meals are Mrs. J. T. Crockett, Miss Julia Cone, Mrs. L. E. Wetzel, Miss Bessie Jackson, Misses Fannie and Virginia Tyler, Miss Ruth Wood, Mrs. Deblancman, Miss Elizabeth Allen and Miss Martha Brown.

While the place is intended for the girls in the neighborhood, a few brave spirits among the men occasionally come in for lunch, but they have to accommodate themselves to the hours at which they will not interfere with the girls, as every seat is often taken when the girls come.

REST ROOM HAS ALREADY SHOWN ITS VALUE

The rest room at Fourteenth and Main is an older venture, and somewhat of a pioneer for the newer one. The idea of the room was first suggested by the girls, and it was to provide a comfortable place for girls to eat their own lunches brought from home. A cup of tea was offered, free of charge, to any one who wished it, but this practice was discontinued, as the element of charity appeared to be keeping away from the room girls who would otherwise come. At the present time a light menu at nominal prices is offered, very much like that at the new lunch room. A good lunch may be obtained for few cents, and a quarter busy girls can get a real treat. This girls who could not afford to care home to get a hot dinner, may come here and get hot, nourishing food for a few cents.

THE IDEA OF THE ROOM ORIGINATED WITH
MRS. THOMAS BIGGER, AND THOSE OF MRS. J. B. CRIST, WHO NOW HAS THE MANAGEMENT OF IT, ITS PRESENT SUCCESS IS LARGELY DUE TO THESE AND SEVERAL OTHER WOMEN WHO HAVE PLACED TO PLACE IN THE CITY TO FIND OUT SUCH A ROOM WAS A NECESSITY, AND WHERE IT HAD BEST BE PLACED.NO PLACES FOR GIRLS TO GO FOR LUNCH

They found that practically no large places of business on lower Main Street provided any place whatever where their women employees could eat their lunches. The managers in one house confessed that once when one of the girls had fainted, he had been obliged to improvise a couch by putting two desks together, as limited were the facilities. In view of these revelations, Mrs. Bigger asked herself where these hundreds of girls working in the neighborhood were eating their lunches. The answer was found at the Chesapeake and Ohio Southern Stations. To the waiting rooms there the girls went in search of a warm place to spend their noon hour, free from the noise of machinery.

TO PROVIDE SOME LUNCH ROOM MORE
SUITABLE THAN A PUBLIC STATION MRS. BIGGER THEN SET TO WORK. ENOUGH MONEY WAS RAISED TO RENT THE SECOND FLOOR OF A BUILDING ON FOURTEENTH AND MAIN STREETS. PRIVATE INDIVIDUALS AND A NUMBER OF RICHMOND MERCHANTS CONTRIBUTED FURNITURE, FOOD, SUPPLIES, WOOD AND COAL, AND EVEN FURNISHED CHAIRS AND COUCHES, A PLACE FOR OPEN FIRE, AND PLenty OF MAGAZINES AND BOOKS.
MERCHANTS HAVE MADE
LIBERAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Another merchant has very recently, put flower boxes and vines at the windows, and still another has given a graphophone, for which the Country Club contributes records. As the place now stands, it consists of three rooms—a lunch room, a rest room with a couple of comfortable cots, and a very cozy sitting room, with comfortable chairs and couches, a place for open fire, and plenty of magazines and books. This room comes thirty or forty girls a day, and in addition a great many travelers, especially women with babies, to rest between trains. Mrs.

J. B. Crist is in charge, and has greatly endeavored herself to the girls who seek her hospitality. She has a young teen every day to help her, mostly young girls, who are greatly interested in the work, and who represent almost every church in Richmond.

An invitation will be extended very shortly to the many people, mostly merchants who have contributed toward fixing up the rooms, to come and see the result.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY
GIVES SUCCESSFUL PLAY

The members of the Girls' Friendly Society, under the direction of the Misses Higgins, from Nebraska, gave two very successful little plays Thursday night at the Young Women's Christian Association Auditorium. The first play, "The House of the Heart," was given by the juniors and told allegorically the qualities that a girl's heart should possess. The evening performers knew their parts perfectly and the carrying quality of their voices, especially, did a great deal of credit to the Misses Higgins.

WILL SERVE LUNCH TO VETERANS DURING PARADE

The members of the lunch committee, of which Mrs. Hudson is chairman, has decided on a simple and easily managed letting of the ice-cream drivers know where to leave for the veterans' luncheon on the day of the parade. Each woman having a station in front of her house is requested to hand out in plain view an "ice" sign, that the drivers may see it and deliver at her door.

A number of these stations have been added to the list published last Sunday. The list of names is as follows:

Monroe Park: serving, Mrs. Paul Redd.

Misses Jeffery, 303 West Franklin; serving, the Misses Jeffery.

Mrs. Joseph Beasley, 181 West Franklin; serving, Mrs. Joseph Beasley.

EXHIBIT AT THE ART CLUB
ATTRACTS ATTENTION

A very interesting exhibit is now going on at the Richmond Art Club, and continuing to the public every day tomorrow. It includes work from every branch of art taught at the school, water color, oil, charcoal, pastel, design and modeling. Every pupil, from the smallest to the oldest, has contributed at least one piece of work, and many of them by several. Especially interesting are the five excellent pictures of well-known places in Richmond done in charcoal by pupils of the school for the Richmond Art Club.

The merit of the work as a whole, and the special excellence of individual pieces proves that the girls have made great strides in the past few years, but promises to advance even further in the future, and become an important art center for the entire State.

The exhibition, which is well worth seeing, is open to the public every day, next week except Thursday afternoon, from 10 o'clock in the morning to 7 at night. The prizes have not yet been awarded, but will be announced shortly.

Tells of Survivor of Jackson's StaffLieutenant James Mercer Garnett Was Ordnance Officer at Army Headquarters.

BY KATE MASON ROWLAND.

It is not very generally known that there lives now in Baltimore a Virginian who had the honor of serving on General Jackson's staff. Major McHenry Howard in his entertaining book, "Recollections of a Maryland Confederate Soldier, 1861-1865," says:

"Lieutenant James Mercer Garnett, one of the most capable staff officers on a battlefield I have known, is a Virginian, but now living in Baltimore."

Mr. Garnett, at my earnest solicitation, has given me the following brief account of his association with our great hero, Jackson. He writes, beginning with his early war record:

"I enlisted in the Rockbridge Artillery, attached to General Jackson's Brigade, then at Winchester, on July 17, 1861. On November 18, 1861, I received a commission as second lieutenant in the regular Confederate army, with orders to report to General Joseph E. Johnston, whose headquarters were then at Centerville, Va. On duty reporting to him, I requested that I might be ordered to report to Major-General T. J. Jackson, who was then at Winchester, with headquarters at Winchester. As I had served with his command since I entered the service, this request was readily granted, and on reporting to General Jackson, I was ordered to report to Captain Warr of the West Augusta Guard, to drill this company of the Fifth Virginia Regiment, recently transformed from infantry to artillery, in artillery drill."

One afternoon in December, 1861, not long before Christmas, a courier rode up to my tent, and I received an order announcing me as 'chief of ordnance of the Valley district.' I could not have been more surprised if the order had dropped down direct from the skies, but I learned the cause of it later. I lost no time in reporting to General Jackson and entering upon my duties. I received as chief of ordnance of the Valley district until April, 1862. This position was on General Jackson's staff, and I reported to him daily to receive his orders with respect to ordnance stores for his army. On the day after the battle of Seven Days (March 25, 1862), while General Jackson was at Woodstock, Va., I requested to be relieved from duty as his chief of ordnance. The reasons for this request it is not necessary to detail here. I reflect to this day his look of surprise and his remark: 'Why so, Mr. Garnett; you are getting on very well. I stated my reasons—or what I considered to be such—and he merely remarked that I should relieve me as soon as he could get an ordnance officer from Richmond. I continued in the discharge of my duties, and about a month later I received an order announcing my discharge and college mate, Lieutenant Hugh H. Lee, chief of ordnance of the Valley district, and ordering me to Brigadier-General Charles S. Winder, commanding the Stonewall Brigade. This was demotion with a vengeance, but I had nothing to say, and soon afterwards I was announced by General Winder as chief of ordnance of the Stonewall Brigade, and called ordnance officer merely, which was applied also to ordnance officers of division, the term, chief of ordnance, being limited to armies and corps."

I never had a word of difference with General Jackson while I served on his staff, and, as far as I know, he was perfectly satisfied with the discharge of my duties. At the battle of Cedar Run, August 9, 1862, he had sent off all his staff, and seeing him without any staff officer, I tendered my services, which were graciously accepted."
